

The Pride Center Expands Services and Building Bridges to a Healthy Future

by Jorge Gardela, Senior Health Outreach Manager

The Pride Center at Equality Park, one of the country's top LGBT community centers, is at the forefront to secure a healthy future in the battle against HIV/AIDS and STDs in Broward County. Benefiting from a seventeen-year track record of providing prevention services to thousands of people, Pride Center clients are educated, counseled and linked to services for HIV, hepatitis and other communicable diseases.

The Pride Center, awarded a multi-year grant from the CDC (Centers for Disease Control), will expand its ability to empower, educate, and transform the lives of many at high risk for HIV infection. Expanded services will include comprehensive risk assessments through one-on-one counseling sessions and a number of support programs that will encourage risk reduction.

CDC funding for this program comes not a moment too soon for Broward County faced with the challenge of being first in the nation for new AIDS diagnoses and second for new HIV infections, according to the CDC's latest Surveillance Report.

"The Pride Center is very proud to be part of the CDC's efforts towards stopping the growth of the HIV/AIDS epidemic in our area," stated Paul Hyman, Executive Director. "The funding allows us to grow capacity to help individuals decrease risk behavior and reduce transmission of HIV and STD's through individual risk-reduction planning and reducing barriers to successful behavioral change."

The CDC grant enables The Pride Center to incorporate the CDC's "Health and Community Services Program" (HCSP) which includes: counseling testing and referral services, RESPECT Intervention for behavioral change and Comprehensive Risk Counseling Services when assisting those at highest risk for HIV infection. In addition to health education, The Pride Center provides testing services through its Minority Testing Initiative (MTI).

"The Pride Center has demonstrated meaningful results with its current HIV prevention programs," explains Jorge Gardela, Senior Health Outreach Manager. "CDC funding will enable the agency to continue its important work in the community on a much larger scale. We will be better able to address the health concerns of the LGBT community, and show care and compassion to diverse communities in Broward County."

Addressing diverse cultural needs, the Center emphasizes inclusion among its staff including: Tony White, Counseling, Testing and Referral Coordinator; Mauricio Ferrer, Health Coordinator for HCSP; Emilio Aponte, RESPECT Coordinator; Andres Santofimio, Comprehensive Risk Counseling Specialist; and S. F. Makalani-MaHee, Data Entry/Control Specialist. They join existing staff: Blue Mannix, Minority Testing Initiative Manager and Testing Specialists Albert Taylor and Daniel Dardenne. We are particularly grateful to our team of skilled and generous volunteers, whose participation is invaluable.

From the Executive Director: Steadfast Nurturing and Hard Won Battles

In recent weeks, we have been confronted by the bitter and violent reality of LGBT young people taking their own lives, in the face of bigotry and hatred. Increased reporting and visibility alert us to these tragic events, which take place far too frequently for many, many years. Despite our progress, the world is a dangerous place for LGBT young people.

By definition, kids are not in charge of their own lives. Their parents, care givers, adult family members, educators, clergy, peers and others set the stage for young peoples' well being and self concept. Kids who often do not decide for themselves what to eat for dinner, decide in desperation to take their own lives. No child should have to bear such responsibility and horror.

As an out, proud gay adult I came face-to-face with my own feelings of hopelessness, helplessness, anger and resignation over the suicidal deaths of these young people in recent weeks. The intractable hate and ignorance that ruined these lives sometimes seems insurmountable. Yet, there are battles that must be fought. There is a war going on and our children are paying the ultimate price, with their lives. Their surviving parents, siblings, friends, loved ones and communities will never know the contributions that these young people would have made.

We can mobilize emotionally and spiritually, as we did at a recent vigil in collaboration with Sunshine Cathedral. We can disseminate social media messages, as is being done with the "It Gets Better" campaign. However, right herein our community, we have an opportunity to mobilize and demand change. An ACT UP moment is upon us!

During the coming weeks, we will release plans to teach the community how to mobilize, how to affect change in local, county and state government, how to intervene, advocate and effectively demand and achieve policy changes and an infrastructure of support for young people. The status quo will not suffice. We owe much of our current independence and openness to generations that preceded us. We owe steadfast nurturing and hard-won battles to those that will follow.

Executive Director

Pride Center Programs & Services

LATINOS - GALANES (Gay Latino No Estas Solo) provides outreach and direct services to more than five thousand Latinos in the region. Its impact and importance in the fight against HIV and AIDS is significant. Latin culture(s) are specifically targeted with programming that is comfortable and familiar to them.

YOUTH - B.U.S.Y. (Benefitting Under Served Youth) aims to connect disadvantaged youth with school-based support to increase academic skills by partnering with positive role models. All too frequently, these young people become school drop-outs. B.U.S.Y. assists with school work, while supporting teachers, school administrators and families, with the goal of helping students to succeed.

YOUTH - YEPSA (Youth Education and Prevention of Substance Abuse) provides a safe Internet presence offering a place for discussions leading to increased understanding and awareness of substance abuse and HIV. Prevention through education is the objective. This is a valuable, well received and extremely effective program for at-risk youth.

SENIORS - The Pride Center's Senior Advisory Council and the "Not-So-Serious-Seniors" provide fun and entertaining programs. The Pride Center also hosts SAGE (Senior Action in a Gay Environment) groups and Prime Timers events, which provide opportunities for seniors to come together on a regular basis.

The Assisted Living Facilities Project (ALF) is charged with the task of contacting and meeting with the administration of assisted living centers and nursing homes to determine their attitudes about the LGBT community and define training opportunities at each center.

WOMEN - Lavender Events for Women is a social networking program that enables women to come together and showcase their businesses, enjoy fun activities and discuss important topics. This initiative is expected to expand at the new campus, with forthcoming financial support.

TRANSGENDER - The Pride Center supports TERI (Transgender Equal Rights Initiative) with marketing and fiscal management support and meeting space. TERI provides information on many issues affecting the transgender community. In addition, the Pride Center supports TERI's social and community initiatives.

HIV TESTING - This invaluable program is one of the most accessible and confidential testing programs offered in Broward County. Encouraging persons to seek testing, providing timely results and thoughtful, compassionate counseling make this one of the Pride Center's most important programs. More than 1,400 people used this free service in the past year.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE - The Pride Center helped to establish and supports the Gay Domestic Violence Coalition. Just as prevalent in the GLBT community as in other populations, the Pride Center's domestic violence hotline and group services provide discrete information and referral services for this hidden and growing issue.

HIV PREVENTION - The PALS Project gathers people living with HIV/AIDS to provide real social support, accurate HIV information and practical, effective tools to lead safer, richer lives. PALS (Positive Action for Living Safely) offers both the 17-week LIFE Program and the five-week CHOICES Program. The L.I.F.E. Program provides step-by-step coaching and fellowship to help participants create and implement personal health plans for long-term thriving with HIV. CHOICES presents fun, interactive small groups to discuss how to build healthy relationships, negotiate safer sex, lower stress and disclose HIV-status to family, friends and sex partners.

PRIDE UNIVERSITY - Pride University is a program that provides exceptional, exciting and cutting-edge growth and learning opportunities for the life-long learners in the South Florida LGBT community.

Planned Giving Means Giving Back to Our Community

by David Yalen,
Membership Assistant

With a tradition of giving back to the community instilled by his entire family, Howard Greenfield left a generous sum of over $12,000 in his will to The Pride Center. This was not Howard's first gift to the Center. He was a long time supporter of the Center along with many other charities. According to Louis Gelb, nephew of Howard's long time partner Bill Rubin (and a dedicated Pride Center volunteer himself) the entire Greenfield family is philanthropic. His sister, Lenore G. Rothman's estate is still donating money to local causes several years after her death.

"Planned Giving" is an easy way to have the peace of mind that you can make a difference in the community you care about, long after you have passed on. You should always consult your attorney and/or CPA before making a bequest. Community organizations like The Pride Center can only thrive when they are fully-funded. Our future is only as strong as the people who make a difference.

The money Howard left the center will be used to help fund the programs and services provided to the community. For a complete listing of programs and services provided by the Pride Center visit our website, PrideCenterFlorida.org. During the difficult economic times such as we have today, donations like Howard's are even more important and appreciated. If you would like to consider making a difference in your community, the way Howard did, please contact Robert Boo, Director of Development at rboo@PrideCenterFlorida.org or 954-463-9005.

“AfterLIFE” Provides Opportunities for Camaraderie

By Michael Childers

AfterLIFE, a volunteer-organized program of activities for people living with HIV/AIDS, developed from a desire for graduates of the LIFE program to continue to gather informally. The LIFE Program is an 18-week health enhancement program provided by the Pride Center's PALS Project. Many people form bonds of trusted support during the LIFE program, and AfterLIFE is a way to strengthen those bonds. It is also a way for graduates of different cycles of the LIFE program to meet and develop friendships.

The initial idea for AfterLIFE was developed about three years ago by two graduates of the LIFE Program. They wanted to keep the feelings of camaraderie they had developed, so they organized their first AfterLIFE event, a barbecue at one of their homes for members of their own cycle. This party went so well, they planned more events and invited the graduates of other cycles. As the program grew and more graduates became involved in planning, they integrated different types of events. Now in addition to social activities, the AfterLIFE program includes educational, charitable and community events.

The program is currently thriving with monthly social events such as bowling at Manor Lanes the third Thursday of the month, game night at the Pride Center on the fourth Wednesday of the month and movie nights and social gatherings scheduled throughout the year. On the educational front, AfterLIFE helps to promote Life Goes On, all day seminars provided to LIFE graduates throughout the year that focus in-depth on life areas covered during the 18-week program.

AfterLIFE also collaborates and promotes the educational and support programs of other community groups, including Positive Attitudes at the Pride Center and BOLT events at Fusion. This year AfterLIFE volunteers were instrumental in organizing the Pride Center Team for the Florida AIDS Walk, the largest team to participate and a team which raised around $23,000 for HIV and AIDS-related organizations.

Going forward, the volunteers of the AfterLIFE program hope to build upon their many successes. There are exciting events planned and more in the planning stages. Next year's Florida AIDS Walk is expected to be a greater success on all fronts. The future will also bring new participants as each new LIFE cycle graduates and all current graduates are invited to join any AfterLIFE event.

If you're interested in participating in any events, or enrolling in the 18-week LIFE Program, please call the PALS Project at the Pride Center, (954) 463-9011. The PALS Project offers health education, wellness empowerment, risk-reduction counseling, service linkage, and emotional and practical support to the nearly 9,500 gay and bisexual men living with HIV/AIDS in Broward County. PALS helps men lead safer, richer lives.

Funded by the Florida Department of Health, Bureau of HIV/AIDS, PALS also provides the five-week CHOICES program. CHOICES helps build coping skills to handle some stressors of living with HIV, including building healthier relationships, negotiating safer sex, lowering stress and disclosing HIV-status.
